The remains of a standing stone cross located within the churchyard of All Saints Church, approximately 4 metres to the south of the priest's door and 8 metres to the south east of the south porch of the church. The cross, which is Listed Grade II, is medieval in date and includes the base plinth, the socket stone and the lower part of the shaft. The base plinth, which is set into the ground diagonally to the church, measures 1.1 metres north west-south east by 0.92 metres north east-south west. The socket stone rests on the plinth and is square to the church. It is 0.34 metres in height and measures 0.7 metres east-west by 0.64 metres north-south and is chamfered to a slightly smaller square on the surface. The lower part of the shaft is mortised into the socket stone and bonded with lead. It measures 0.29 metres east-west by 0.23 metres north-south at the base, rising through chamfered corners to an octagonal section, and is 0.56 metres high. The full height of the cross in its present form is 0.9 metres. Scheduled.
